GOV. McCREARY UP BIG SANDY.

Made Brief Speech at Louisa From the Train Thursday.

Gov. James B. McCreary spoke in Louisa Thursday morning of this week from the rear platform of the regular train. 300 or more persons were out to hear him. He was on his way to Prestonsburg and Pikeville, and it became known here on Wednesday that he would pass through on the eight o'clock train. Louisa friends wired a request to him to speak from the train, and he cheerfully consented. Only about ten minutes time was given by the train, but he improved the time very appropriately and made a pleasing address. The crowd applauded him frequently. He was introduced by Hon. James Q. Lackey, who was a member of the Legislature when McCreary was Governor the first time.

Many ladies were present and Mrs. G. W. Wroten and Mrs. Augustus Snyder presented the Governor with bouquets of handsome roses. The Governor expressed his regret at not being able to include Louisa in his regular speaking dates, but lack of time on account of his duties at Frankfort made this impossible.

The Governor's vigor and activity surprised those who had never before seen him. There were quite a number of people out to greet him at various stations along the route through Lawrence county, wherever the people had heard that he was to pass through. He shook hands with many persons at these places.

The Governor spoke to a large crowd at Prestonsburg Thursday afternoon. He will speak at Pikeville Friday, at Jenkins Saturday and at Whitesburg Monday. From there he will return to Frankfort via the L. & N.

The Governor's fair, conservative course, and his great strength for the November campaign is winning by the hundreds and thousands. The battle the other two men are making means death to both of them and the rank and file of the party realize it.

EXCELLENT FRUIT BY SCIENTIFIC METHODS.

Mr. J. B. McClure, of this vicinity, has shown by his work what intelligent labor, backed and assisted by pluck and patience, will do, with a few acres of hillside land as a laboratory and workshop.

About seven years ago he moved onto a farm of this description, located a couple of miles from Louisa. It was a typical "hillside" farm, lots of hill and plenty of side. It had been worked after the fashion of the day, with but little attention to soil fitness or rotation of crops, and with still less regard to fertilizers. The native soil was very thin, with no attempt to replace or hold it. Mr. McClure had studied agriculture, and had learned farming experimentally and by practice. He saw the possibilities of his place and set about making the best possible use of it. He set out peach, apple, cherry and plum trees. He didn't wait until the "sign" or the moon was "right," but he plowed and harrowed and hoed and raked, and when the ground was right he put in the seed. He did this year after year, sowing, planting and reaping, and this year, this season of drought, he has a showing on his hillside farm of which any man might well be proud. He has studied soils and grasses and fertilizers and legumes and cover crops until his "book learnin'" and his well directed labor have made him one of the foremost farmers in point of intelligence in the country. Most of his vegetables have withstood the hot, dry weather well, and his peaches, apples and plums are very fine.

Mr. McClure has simply done what any farmer of like industry and intelligence can do, but similar results are difficult, if not impossible, to obtain by the obsolete, slipshod methods which still obtain in some parts of the country.

CONLEY'S STORE SOLD.

Ora C. Atkins and John Vaughan have purchased Conley's jewelry and stationery store. They took charge yesterday morning and will continue the business along the same lines that have been used nearly 23 years by their predecessor. Mr. Atkins had considerable experience in merchandising several years ago. Mr. Vaughan is a graduate watchmaker who has been working at the trade in Huntington for a year or more, where his work has given satisfaction. These are reliable gentlemen and we predict for them a liberal patronage.

CAMDEN PRESIDES OVER SENATE

Another Senate precedent has been shattered. It was broken when Senator Camden was selected by Vice President Marshall to serve as Acting Vice President pro tempore of the United States Senate. This is said to be the first instance of a newly-appointed Senator being chosen to preside over that body even for a few moments. Senator Camden presided for three hours.

PROMINENT LADY DEAD.

Mrs. Roland F. Hackney, wife of one of the most prominent merchants in this section of the country, died at her home at Mouth Card, Ky., of tuberculosis, Friday, July 24.

REV. F. F. SHANNON AT BAPTIST CHURCH.

At the Baptist Church on Sunday night last the Rev. F. F. Shannon preached another of those wonderful sermons of his to an audience which filled every part of the building. He based his discourse on these words of the Psalmist: "I shall be satisfied when I awake with His likeness." From the exordium to the conclusion it was a flawless sermon, perfect in conception and thought, encouraging and helpful, sound in doctrine, and full of true christian faith. While it was a sermon that would read well it would require its gifted author to deliver it so that it would be appreciated.

Mr. Shannon certainly has been good to his former fellow citizens, in that he has taken so much of his vacation to prepare and deliver so many sermons for their pleasure and benefit.

UNION BIBLE CLASS.

Just now Prof. Kennison's Union Bible Class, taught at the M. E. Church South every Thursday at 7:30 p. m., is having more than usually interesting meetings. The general subject is Jesus in the Old Testament. The several phases of the comprehensive topic are ably discussed by the very able instructor, and those who fail to attend miss a great deal of what is both useful and interesting.

Prof. Kennison continues to hold the record for punctuality, with no one a very close second. Promptly on the very instant of the beginning time, whether those present are few or many, the professor begins his remarks, continuing for one golden hour. It is possible to follow Prof. Kennison in this matter of promptness in beginning on the minute of the opening service, but few do it.

SIX WEDDINGS WITHIN THE WEEK.

Active Week in the Matrimonial Market of This Vicinity.

If "the good old summer time" has had any effect upon the matrimonial market it was to boost it, the NEWS having six to record this week. Three weddings are recorded below, and to swell the list the Rev. M. A. Hay comes forward with three more in which he performed the ceremony.

On the 10th inst., in Louisa, he married Morton Wheeler, 21, of Blaine, to Amanda Green, 15.

These were followed on July 19th by Hannah Fletcher, 19, and Fled Davis, aged 40.

The latest to stand before the popular parson were Lydia Williamson, aged 61, and Jasper Meek, aged 56.

In the dual capacity of clerk and minister our friend is following the injunction to make Hay while the sun shines.

SADA SEE MARRIED.

The summer sun never shown on a prettier wedding than the one solemnized at the home of Mrs. L. See, at Kermit, W. Va., Wednesday, July 15th, at two o'clock, when her daughter Sada was united in marriage to Mr. A. W. Goode, of Roanoke, Va.

Promptly at the appointed hour the young couple marched into the room filled with expectant and admiring guests. The bride was beautifully arrayed in white messaline, with bride's roses artistically arranged round the stylish panner while a wreath of the same adorned her auburn hair. The groom wore the conventional black.

After a dainty luncheon the happy couple were borne away amid much merriment and showers of rice on train No. 16 to Virginia where they will visit the groom's parents. They will visit also Norfolk and other points of the East.

The bride is the lovely and talented little artist who carried away first grand prize for landscape sketching at the Lawrence county school fair held at Louisa. The groom is a prosperous and energetic young business man, and comes from Virginia's best.

The Rev. Ellison, of Williamson, W. Va., officiated.

May there be laid up for them a crowd of happiness for many, many years to come is the wish of

KERMIT FRIENDS.

WILSON-BURKE.

On Friday evening, July 17th, at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. Walter Carr, on the Point, Miss Neva Wilson, of this city, was married to Harry Burke, of Louisa, the Rev. G. M. Copley officiating. Mrs. Burke is a most estimable young woman, intelligent and of pleasing manner. For three years past she was an efficient member of the corps of nurses in the King's Daughters' hospital, Ashland. She is popular and highly respected.

The groom is a sober, industrious young man, of good habits. He is a fireman on the N. & W. railway, running from Columbus to Williamson. The wedding came as a surprise to their relatives and friends.

WERE MARRIED AT CORDELL.

On Saturday last Miss Carrie Swetnam, of Wilbur, and Charley Carey, of this city, were married at Cordell, this county. They came at once to Louisa to the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Carey. On Sunday morning they left for Lexington, where Mr. Carey, who is an excellent mechanic, has employment.

The bride is a very attractive and intelligent young woman, the youngest daughter of Mr. Milt Swetnam one of the best known and highly respected citizens of the county.

TERRIBLY CUT.

Early on last Friday morning Dr. A. W. Bromley, N. & W. surgeon, was sent for to attend John Majeski, whose home is in Wheeling, W. Va. The man was on a coal train, hobnobbing, and had been attacked and terribly cut and stabbed by two unknown men. The man was suffering from cuts received as follows: Four cuts on face, two on back of neck three inches long, ten stabbed wounds in the back, one cut on back four inches long and very deep. Dr. Bromley gave him first aid and had him taken to the N. & W. hospital in Portsmouth.

The object of the would-be murderers was evidently robbery, and finding nothing on the man's person they became enraged and tried to kill him. Majeski was asleep when the ruffians attacked him.

TAYLOR JOHNS CRITICALLY ILL.

Word has been received by relatives in Louisa that Taylor Johns, paymaster's clerk on a United States battleship in Philippine waters, has left on a transport for San Francisco. He is critically ill, but hopes to live long enough to reach San Francisco before he dies. Wallace Johns, of Columbus, desires that his brother Henry, of this city, start at once for San Francisco, but Henry thinks his brother will die before he, Henry, can get there.

Mrs. M. A. Elkins, of Ashland, Mrs. W. S. Frasier and daughter, Alta Dorris, of Holden, W. Va., Miss Hattie Carter, of Yatesville, and Ray Gardway, of Parkersburg, W. Va., were recent guests of B. J. Chaffin and family.

METHODISTS AWARDED NEW UNIVERSITY TO ATLANTA.

Atlanta, Ga., July 18.—Atlanta was selected as the seat of the university to be established east of the Mississippi river by the Methodist Episcopal Church South, at a meeting here today of the Education Committee appointed by the General Conference of the Church to choose a location for the proposed institution, Birmingham, Ala., and Henderson, N. C., were strong contenders for the university. The vote selecting Atlanta was announced as 12 to 2.

Announcements by Bishop Warren A. Candler, chairman of the commission, that Atlanta had been selected, was immediately followed by official confirmation of the report that $1,000,000 had been given to the new university by Asa G. Candler, of this city, a brother of Bishop Candler.

It was stated on reliable authority today that the university as contemplated will represent an investment of $5,000,000. It is expected that work on the buildings will be started before next winter.

The commission tonight announced the following appointments for the new university:

Trustees—Bishop Warren A. Candler, Atlanta, chairman; Asa G. Candler, Atlanta; W. G. N. Thomas, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Executive Committee—Bishop Warren A. Candler, Atlanta, chairman; Asa G. Candler, Atlanta; Bishop J. C. Kilgore, Durham, N. C.; W. D. Thompson, Atlanta, and T. G. Fitzhugh, Nashville, Tenn.

It is explained that the trustees were temporary appointments and were selected so that they might proceed with authority to take over property for the university and receive contributions.

PRICE OF CATTLE TO REMAIN HIGH.

Large Packer Says Imported Frozen Beef is Unprofitable.

Chicago, Ill., July 21.—Joseph M. Cudahy, Vice President of the Cudahy Packing Company, in commenting upon the fact that his concern is losing money on importations of frozen beef from Argentina and Australia, said today:

"We cannot account for it, but the fact remains that the United States field has proven a sad disappointment as an outlet for frozen beef from foreign countries. We do not deal with consumers directly and cannot blame the housewife for our predicament, but we know from experience that retailers will not buy frozen meats unless they can get them at prices that do not cover the cost of importations."

"Knowing that the product moved freely into consumptive channels in England we made large purchases. After exerting much time, effort and capital we found that our only reliable outlets were large supply houses, hotels and railroad construction camps. Retailers catering to the smaller consumer would not consider our offerings, except at ruinous prices."

"It has been said that packers were holding foreign frozen beef and mutton off the market in order to keep the price of domestic meats at a high level. There is absolutely no grounds for any such statement. It is when meat products are low that packers can make the most money."

"The average cost of beef on the hoof is higher now than ever before at this time of the year, and I do not look for any cheap meats until the production of meat animals has caught up with the increase in population, which, I believe, will not be for many years."

THE SUFFRAGISTS MEET.

Miss Lily Ray Glenn, of Washington, D. C., spoke at the court house Friday night on the subject of Woman Suffrage. She is a loan to Kentucky from the Congressional Committee of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, of which Mrs. Medill McCormick, of Chicago, is chairman, and has been organizing under the direction of Mrs. Desha Breckenridge, president of the Kentucky Equal Rights Association.

Miss Glenn held her audience for an hour and received enthusiastic applause at intervals.

After the speech, cards were passed around and all who believed in the right of suffrage for women were invited to sign and become members of the Lawrence County Woman Suffrage League, a non-dues paying organization. After the meeting officers were elected as follows:

President, Miss Rebecca Lackey. Vice President, Miss Mae Sammons. Secretary, Miss Goldie Byington. Treasurer, Miss Margaret Hatcher. Miss Glenn left Saturday for Chicago.

GARNETT SAYS NO BLANK LINES ON PRIMARY BALLOT.

Frankfort, Ky., July 17.—Many county officers are confused again about the primary ballots, and have inquired of Attorney General Garnett whether they must leave a blank line under the names of candidates for each nomination. Explaining that the primary law does not permit the writing of names of candidates on the ballot, nor the counting of votes for candidates whose names are written, Mr. Garnett said, no blank line should be inserted.

SCHOOL PER CAPITA BREAKS THE RECORD

Kentucky Teachers Will Get Highest Price Per Pupil.

Frankfort, Ky., July 16.—The 11,000 public school teachers in Kentucky will receive $365,000 more in aggregate wages for the school year of 1914-15 than last year as the result of an increase in the per capita apportionment of the State school fund of 50 cents, declared by State Superintendent Barksdale Hamlett today.

The per capita will be $4.50, the highest in the history of the State. In 1911-12, when a State campaign was on, the per capita was placed at $4.40; but as a result the present administration when it entered found a deficit of $537,000 in the school fund. The per capita was reduced to $4 and kept there, the census was scrutinized and thousands of names stricken from the county and city lists, and June 30, 1914, the school fund had to its credit a balance of $638,000.

The balance was not sufficient to warrant the extension of the school term in the rural districts to seven or eight months, which could have been done under the act of 1914, if a per capita of $4.75 had been possible.

The State Auditor's Department estimates the school revenue for the current year at $3,061,544, to which is added the balance in the school fund, making the total amount available, as estimated, $3,699,544. There are 730,000 children of school age in the State, and the State fund will be distributed among the counties and cities in proportion to the scholastic population, on the basis of $4.50 for each pupil. The State fund can be used only for paying teachers' salaries.

COUNTY AGENT KEGLEY.

Mr. Kegley attended the agricultural meeting in Lexington and heard in Cyril G. Hopkins, of Illinois. He is one of America's greatest agronomists who showed conclusively the value of limestone and phosphate in permanent soil improvement. Heretofore fertilizers which have been used have not been what was needed. So far phosphate has not been used as it should be—broadcast, over a well-made seed bed. Chemical analysis shows our soil to be very deficient in lime and phosphate, and if we are to continue growing grain and grass this deficiency must be provided for. A number of farmers have expressed a desire to use a small quantity of limestone, and if they are still anxious to secure some of this material so that it can be used this season while the roads are good, let Mr. Kegley hear how much they can use so that the lowest price of material and freight can be obtained. The cost will be about $1.75 per ton at Louisa.

Mr. Kegley spent each afternoon with the Teachers' Institute, explaining and demonstrating the most important crops of this section, and how and what crops are best suited for promoting animal industry. Today there are more pure bred cattle in this country than ever before. The institute brought out the sentiment that alfalfa has not been produced successfully by our Lawrence county farmers. It can be grown on rich, well drained soil if the proper amount of lime and phosphate be added. We should, however, be giving more attention to the growing of cowpeas and crimson clover through the winter, preceded by seeding peas in June and clover in August for a winter crop. We should grow these crops and improve the soil to the end that alfalfa could be grown to greater profit.

LAWRENCE COUNTY FAIR ASSOCIATION.

President V. B. Shortridge, Treasurer G. W. Handley and Secretary Wm. Taylor, of East Fork, along with a number of other enterprising farmers from that section, and Vice President E. G. McKinstir, of Mattie, met at Louisa last Monday to perfect arrangements for the Lawrence county fair to be held next October.

The committee on grounds for the fair reported several prospective sites, and the association finally left the selection entirely in the hands of the committee, composed of Augustus Snyder, Dr. T. D. Burgess and Jay H. Northup. They will report later.

By-laws were discussed and adopted as far as possible. Other points of interest were discussed.

It was decided to meet again at Louisa on Friday, July 31st. Everybody is invited to these meetings and to take part in the discussions. A goodly number were present at the meeting Monday, and the lively interest displayed was very encouraging.

It was decided to confine the premiums offered by this Association to exhibitors living in Lawrence and Wayne counties. Exhibits from persons outside of these counties will be quite welcome and their exhibits will be displayed.

The secretary was instructed to apply to the State Experiment station for a man to judge live stock.

The adoption of school books by the State Board was completed so late that the books are just now ready to be shipped to the dealers throughout Kentucky. Old books will be exchanged to the extent of one-half the price. Conley's store in Louisa has been designated as distributor and the books are expected to be on sale there within a very few days.

BREATHITT TEACHERS WANT FOUR-MILE LAW.

Jackson, Ky., July 19.—The closing day of the Breathitt County Teachers' Institute at Jackson was featured by the adoption of a resolution calling upon the legislature at its next session to pass a law prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors within four miles of any school maintained in the state. The resolution recites that the legislature, at its session two years ago, passed a law providing a penalty to sell liquor within 400 feet of State University or any other University or Normal School maintained in whole or in part by the state of Kentucky.

The teachers say they consider the common schools of equal or greater importance to the state and that the pupils being of tender age, need more protection than older persons.

The teachers also declared themselves heartily in favor of the enforcement of the cigarette law and pledged themselves to do all in their power to save the children from the cigarette evil.

ADVICE TO FARMERS.

Frankfort, Ky., July 19.—Splendid crops of cow peas may yet be raised by the farmers if the seed are sowed within the next ten days or two weeks. Commissioner Newman also said today that if farmers desired they could sow sorghum and millet and that both crops would mature before frost. Ordinary corn, if sowed broadcast, will grow from two to three feet high before frost and will afford splendid food for cattle during the winter. From the present outlook, Commissioner Newman said that hay was going to soar sky high this winter and that he would advise the farmers planting cow peas, millet and corn.

GRADUATING EXERCISES OF K. N. C. CLASS.

The Court House Was Packed to the Limit to Witness Program.

The commencement exercises of the graduating class of the High School Department of the Kentucky Normal College held at the court house on Thursday evening, July 16th, formed a notable event in the history of the school. A very large audience, not deterred by a threatening storm, greeted the young graduates and showed a lively interest in all that pertained to this auspicious event in their lives.

The programme, delightfully interspersed with instrumental and vocal music, was as follows:

Invocation and Scripture Reading, Rev. L. M. Copley.

Address, Rev. C. B. Plummer.

Presentation of Diplomas, Rev. B. M. Keith.

Benediction, Rev. A. M. Dial.

The presentation of diplomas by Mr. Keith was accompanied by an address. This and the address of Mr. Plummer were made along different but very appropriate lines. They were eloquent efforts and were well received and heartily applauded.

The programme was given under the direction of the head of the High School, Prof. E. M. Kennison, who, in calling the numbers, spoke of Miss Kate Freese, who had charge of the musical numbers, as being the head of the Music Department of the College. That she is entirely competent to fill this position is evident to all who are acquainted with her abilities as a teacher.

During the evening the following music was rendered: Two songs by Miss Freese—"I Hear You Calling Me" and "The Fragrance of the Rose." In her first song she was accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Conley, and for her second song she was accompanied by Miss Lou Chaffin, both being pupils of the singer.

The Misses May and Grace Sammons gave a piano duet, "The Witches' Flight," and in response to a hearty encore another fine duet. Miss Freese's second song was given in response to an insistent encore.

"When We Haven't Said Our Prayers." This was a recitation finely given by Miss Agnes Abbott, with piano accompaniment by Miss Freese. These various songs, with their accompaniment, and the piano numbers were given in a style far above the usual school rendition of music, which shows that music, with the other departments of the K. N. C., will be equal to the best.

The Louisa band, under the leadership of Mr. Shank, contributed much to the pleasure of the occasion.

The exercises of the evening were closed by the singing of the Class Song by the graduates: Miss Lauretta Clifford Wilson, Charles Hensford Withers, Ulysses Victoria Garred, Kit Carson Elswick and Frederick K. Cain.

AT THE HOSPITAL.

Last week Dr. Chilt Osborne, of Blaine, brought to Riverview hospital Sherman Robbins, who was suffering with a tumor on the left shoulder. The growth, which was very large, was removed by Drs. York and Bromley and the man, who was in poor condition, is doing as well as can be expected.

On Wednesday morning the same physicians successfully operated upon Mr. Olin Morgan for appendicitis. Mr. Morgan's wife, who is also here, was before her marriage Miss Vaughan, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Vaughan, of this vicinity. At this time Mr. Morgan is doing well.

Senate committees took another firm grip on the Administration legislative programme and made some progress on the Securities, Clayton and Trade Commission Bills. Senate Democrats who favor confirmation of Thomas D. Jones, of Chicago, as a member of the Federal Reserve Board, telegraphed Mr. Jones urging him to answer the report of the majority.

Provisional President Carbajal has announced that all cities near which rebel forces are concentrated will be evacuated by the Federals. The commission which is to discuss peace terms with Carranza has not reached him as yet.

Commissioner of Agriculture Newman has suggested that the farmers of Kentucky make haste to repair the shortage in the hay crop by sowing some seasonable catch crop as cow peas, sorghum or millet.

MONDAY.

Members of Congress are losing hope of early adjournment and some expect the present session to last until December. At least six weeks of discussion on the trust bills is expected in the Senate, and the hitch on confirmation of two members of the Federal Reserve Board is expected to cause further delay. There still remains the probability, it is stated, that the three anti-trust bills will be consolidated. In the House this week the Adamson General Dam Bill is expected to overshadow other matters.

THE HOME CIRCLE AND ITS INTERESTS.

Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join The Home Circle at Evening Tide.

No home is quite complete where everything for its comfort and cheer has been done without the presence in it which redeems the too sordid pursuit of present opportunities by the tender touch of the things of the past. "What is home without a mother?" the street ballad has it, but just as true and forcible a phrase would be, "What is home without a grandmother?" Whether it is the brisk and bustling grandmother, whose years set lightly on her, and who is more useful than any brownie in the home, or the dear old saint whose work is done and who can only sit with folded hands and show us how near heaven is to earth, it is

SAVES DAUGHTER

Advice of Mother no Doubt Prevents Daughter's Untimely End.

Ready, Ky.—"I was not able to do anything for nearly six months," writes Mrs. Laura Bratcher, of this place, "and was down in bed for three months."

I cannot tell you how I suffered with my head, and with nervousness and womanly troubles.

Our family doctor told my husband he could not do me any good, and he had to give it up. We tried another doctor, but he did not help me.

At last, my mother advised me to take Cardui, the woman's tonic. I thought it was no use for I was nearly dead and nothing seemed to do me any good. But I took eleven bottles, and now I am able to do all of my work and my own washing.

I think Cardui is the best medicine in the world. My weight has increased, and I look the picture of health.

If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, get a bottle of Cardui today. Delay is dangerous. We know it will help you, for it has helped so many thousands of other weak women in the past 50 years.

the grandmother that is the real angel in the home, and every child in the family thinks so.

When a young couple start out in life together and they do really love each other sincerely, there is one other thing, next to good health, that is needed to make a continuous happy life, and that is good financing. Without this quality love will soon fade away and disagreement follow. What causes so many divorce suits? Bad financing. Some of our best and brightest citizens are among our poorest managers and consequently have difficulties to battle with during life. Therefore, good management and saving qualities, together with good character, are essential points to be observed by young men and women, equally well by husband and wife, in order to maintain prosperity and contentment.

Nobody likes a fast girl. She may be pretty and rich, but if she is bold and fast among men she will never be well respected. Well bred people appreciate modesty in women and cannot tolerate the want of it. We are glad to say that as a rule girls are retiring and modest, but occasionally we see one that is headstrong and bold, and the younger she is the worse she seems to be. The proper place for a girl under 18 is among her dolls and the longer she stays there the better it is for her future happiness. The girl who sits out at 14 will be an old woman at 25. Mothers, keep your daughters about your knees as long as possible and you will never have cause to regret it.

Home life is the source of exquisite blessings. There is nothing more attractive, refining and uplifting than its simple joys and freudless pleasures. The world has pleasures gay and bright but nothing exceeds the joy of home and bliss of our own fireside. It is the place of gladness where burns the firelight bright. We cross the doorway and enter its threshold to find the garden of paradise. We cannot be indifferent to the sweet attractions, simple pleasures, pleasant conversation and sweet songs of the family circle. None are more bright, more pure and none more like the love of highest heaven. It is more like heaven than any spot on earth.

Educate your boy. You may think money spent in this way is money spent in vain. There is nothing in him; he has no pride, no inspiration. You don't know. No one can tell what is in a boy. Besides, there may be an unkindled spark, an unfanned flame, a smoldering fire, a latent energy, which the teacher's rod may stir, the association, which the books and men may arouse, develop and direct, and thus start a boy agoing, with such energy and determination that no power on earth could stop him short of the top-most round in the ladder of fame.

One of the fashionable sins of the present time is the sin of idleness. This may not apply to the "club ladies" of smaller towns, but this evil exists to an alarming extent, especially so in larger cities where competent ladies flit away time as if there were no life. There are persons whom the stress of circumstances compel to work, but the work is too often done under protest. There is a growing distaste for housekeeping. While all honest labor is honorable there is nothing more so than the care of a home.

The habit of treating those who are nearest and dearest to us with discourtesy, is one that clouds the sunshine of too many homes. If you are young and looking for your prince, just test his home conduct. Do not be guided in his choice by what a young man is in the parlor; find out what he is in his mother's sitting room. Do not judge him by the way he can tip his hat, but by the way he treats the old, especially his parents.

It is well to begin with your children and teach them the value of money. Don't let them fling their pennies away for trifles, but teach them to save until they have enough to buy something of some value. This habit once established, will be invaluable in later life.

The father and mother ought to be numbered with the boys and girls in every holiday and frolic as well as in every responsibility.

If religion has done nothing for your temper it has done nothing for your soul.

WHY WEAK LUNGS?

The toll of tuberculosis is claiming more than 350 victims every day in the United States, yet few realize their grave condition until the critical period arrives.

Overwork, worry, weakness after sickness, catarrh, bronchitis, tender throats—all exert the weakening influence that invites consumption.

To guard against consumption, thousands of people take Scott's Emulsion after meals because its rich medicinal nourishment strengthens the lungs, puts vigor in the blood, and upbuilds strength to resist tuberculosis. Scott's Emulsion is nature's strength-builder. Refuse substitutes.

Nominate McCreary for Senator and the battle in November will be easy and sure.

Gov. McCreary is the only candidate for the full term who will not have to fight strong factions in his own party in November. Therefore he is the only one who is certain to win in November.

Each voter in the primary on Saturday, August 1st, will have the right to stamp an X opposite three names on the ballot—for a Senator full term, for a Senator short term, for a Congressman.

The United States, through its consular representatives, appealed to Gen. Villa and Gen. Carranza, in the name of patriotism and peace, to effect a settlement of their personal differences.

Even if you have a preference for a certain candidate, it is no kindness to him to help nominate him if he will probably be defeated in November. Such a defeat would end his political career. It would be better for him to lose in the primary.

Before deciding to enter the race for United States Senator, Gov. McCreary wrote a letter to John C. C. Mayo, urging him to make the race for the Senate. He pledged his unqualified support to Mr. Mayo, but the latter declined to become a candidate.

Business is beginning to hum all over the country. The railroads are placing large orders with the mills and the enormous wheat crop is beginning to move. Stocks are low in all large merchandising establishments and the fall business will be heavy.

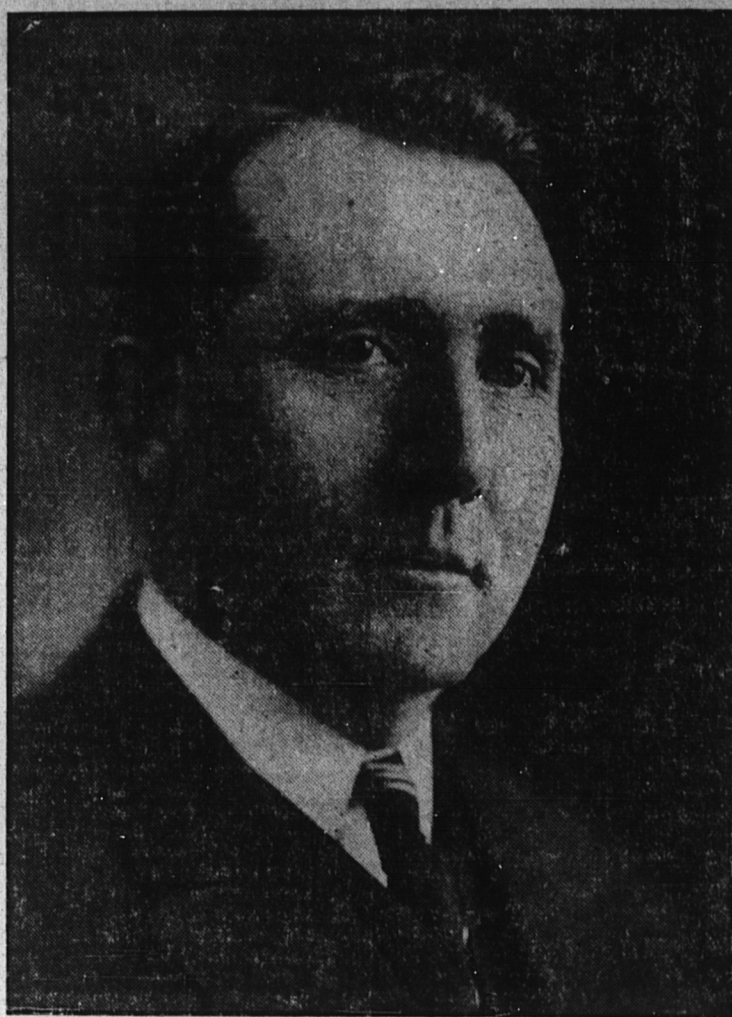

If your choice for United States Senator is to be made the target in November for a lot of political feudists and bolters who are strong enough to defeat him, why would it not be better to nominate another man who can win, and thus rob his enemies of the satisfaction of ending his career.

Governor McCreary is the only candidate for United States Senator who may be classed as an Eastern Kentucky man. His home is at Richmond, where the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School is located. The others are all from Western Kentucky, where Senator Ollie James lives.

No man should ask for a nomination who has antagonized and estranged factions enough to make it impossible for him to carry the party banner to victory. It is not fair to the party. Gov. McCreary never fails to win when nominated. It is conceded that he is the only candidate in the race who can get the full vote of the party.

Just as Democratic leaders in the Senate thought the Administration anti-trust programme had been perfected and made ready for launching, the bill to regulate railroad securities struck a snag in the opposition of Louis D. Brandeis and George Rublee, who claimed the Government would be placed in the attitude of guaranteeing the issuance of securities.

State Senator Nim Coburn, of Olive Hill, Carter county, one of the leading Democrats and merchants in Eastern Kentucky, was a visitor in Louisville recently. Senator Coburn in commenting on the political situation in his section said that if there was a Democrat in Eastern Kentucky who did not favor the nomination of Senator Johnson N. Camden for the short term he had not heard of him. He said there was no doubt about Camden sweeping Eastern Kentucky. For the long term senatorship Senator Coburn is supporting Gov. McCreary.

W. J. FIELDS.

The above likeness is that of Congressman W. J. Fields, of Carter county, who is seeking to be re-nominated by the Democrats of this district. He has made an excellent record, and his colleagues speak of him in the highest terms. He is a sober, upright, earnest gentleman who attends strictly to business all the time. He asks for the votes of all Democrats in the primary on August 1st.

In order to win, a Democratic candidate for a high office in Kentucky must get practically all the Democratic votes, or enough Republican votes to make up for the loss. What Democrat in Lawrence county believes the party can afford to depend upon Republican votes to elect our United States Senator next November? The prospects are that the Republican nominee will be a man entirely satisfactory to that party, and it is unreasonable to suppose that he will not get the solid Republican vote. Nominate McCreary and we will not have any such problems to worry about.

The office of United States Senator is the highest in the gift of the people of any State. The people should select the best qualified man possible. Experience and integrity make the best equipment. The more experience a man has had, the better he is qualified. There is not a man in the United States who is more competent than Governor McCreary. He has been all along the line and knows how to meet in the right way every condition that arises. He is one of the few old time statesmen, such as have made history in the United States. McCreary is always found on the right side of every question.

Governor McCreary has always been a staunch friend of the mountain people, and has made more appointments in the mountains than has any former Governor. He has been especially friendly to Rowan county always, having made more appointments in Rowan county during his present term than any two previous Governors. If the mountain people want to be honored, they ought to remember and stand by their friends. It is the only way that they can insure future promotion for themselves and their children. Governor McCreary's grandfather was a mountaineer, and he feels drawn to the mountain people. He has many friends in the mountains of Kentucky, and he'll receive a handsome vote in this section.—Morehead Mountaineer.

Governor McCreary is the only Governor who has given Lawrence county any appointments, and he has been so generous as to give positions to seven of our Democrats during his present term of office. The positions are as follows:
Prison Commissioner.
Fish and Game Warden.
Assistant State Examiner and Inspector.
State Text Book Commissioner.
Forest Warden.
Claims Clerk in Auditing Department.
Guard at Penitentiary.

Also, there are two other positions which may come to this county within the next two or three months. Nearly ten thousand dollars a year is coming into our county from these appointments.

Every Democrat in Lawrence county should vote for him on this account, if for no other reason. There is scarcely another county in the State which has been given as many appointments as Lawrence now has. If we do not show our appreciation of such generous treatment, how do we hope to get anything in the future from any administration? Democrats should stand together as one family in supporting a Governor who thus favors our county.

Nine Reasons Why the Mountaineer is For McCreary For Senator.

(Morehead Mountaineer.)
1. Because it means the party's certain triumph in the final election.
2. Because he has had the experience which insures efficient service.
3. Because he has responded always when his party called for his services, whether it accorded with his own plans and desires or not.
4. Because he was a Confederate soldier and a Confederate officer, and we cannot honor such too often when they have ever since been good, useful, patriotic citizens.
5. Because he is one of the few public men who have preserved an unblemished character. To repudiate such men influences our youth to dishonor, while to uphold such men encourages our young men to be upright.

6. Because he redeemed Kentucky from Republican rule by 31,000 majority, and the Democrats are obligated to him more than to any other man.
7. Because he already has an acquaintance and influence in the United States Senate which would make him a power in that body from the moment of his appearance there.
8. Because he is the only candidate before the people who possesses the ripe age, experience, dignity, wisdom and trained ability requisite for so high and honorable position.
9. Because his remarkable career, the pride of all Democrats and of all true Kentuckians, demands to be crowned with the final victory to round it out to a proper completion.

When the Proof Can Be So Easily Investigated.

When so many grateful citizens of Louisa testify to benefit derived from Doan's Kidney Pills, can you doubt the evidence? The proof is not far away—it is almost at your door. Read what a resident of Louisa says about Doan's Kidney Pills. Can you demand more convincing testimony?

G. E. Pigg, Main Cross St., Louisa, says: "For several years I was subject to severe backaches. I had much trouble in passing the kidney secretions. Sometimes the secretions were profuse, then again scanty and highly colored. Doan's Kidney Pills were procured at the Louisa Drug Store and they gave me the first relief I had received. After using this remedy, I enjoyed better health and entire freedom from kidney trouble. I have been well since. I am glad to confirm the endorsement I gave Doan's Kidney Pills several years ago." Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Pigg had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

POINTS ABOUT SCHOOL ELECTION

The next school elections in which the women of the rural districts will have the privileges of voting will be held the first Saturday afternoon in August, from one to five, at the school house in each sub-district, in which the term of the trustee expires this year. The officers of election are chosen by the voters at the opening of the polls. (This does not apply to graded common school districts.)

All women over twenty-one years of age who are able to read and write and who have resided in a school sub-district for sixty days, may vote at such elections. These elections are by viva voce vote.

Any woman who is over twenty-one years of age and has been a resident of the district for sixty days is eligible to the office of school trustee, provided she is able to read and write, as shown by a certificate of five responsible citizens of the sub-district.

On the first Saturday in August, also, many sub-districts will vote on the question whether or not a special local school tax is to be levied. Such a question can not be voted on unless fifteen days notice has been given by written or printed handbills posted up in at least five of the most public places in the sub-district.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

On last Thursday afternoon Henry Castle, aged about 70 years, was struck and instantly killed by lightning not far from his home while returning from work in the field. His home was on Hood, about three miles from Blaine. A grandson who was with him was so badly shocked that he did not recover consciousness until the following day. Mr. Castle was a veteran of the Civil War.

PERSONAL WHISTLES PLACED UNDER BAN BY C. & O.

C. & O. employees have been notified that all personal property on engines such as whistles, etc., must be removed and hereafter an engineer will not be able to have his personal whistle.

The company, in a bulletin posted at the C. & O. offices and yard rooms declared that the action was rendered necessary because of the fact that a suit was entered against the company a short time ago at Paintsville by an engineer, who claimed that someone had stolen his whistle from his engine. Although the engineers hate to part company with their little personal properties that individualized their engines, they have begun to comply with the order and within a day or so all of the little personal belongings of train employees now attached to the trains, will be discarded.

ILLITERACY IN THE STATE.

The Kentucky Illiteracy Commission has been giving out some statements in regard to the number of illiterates in the various counties. In some instances this has been resented by school officials, who are somewhat disposed to question the figures.

The census of 1910 showed the number of illiterates in every county in the State. There is no reason to doubt that the census figures were correct and they probably are being used by the Illiteracy Commission. There may have been some reduction in the number of illiterates since the Federal census was taken, but this is doubtful. There is a considerable influx of foreign population in the counties of Eastern Kentucky and much of this immigration is illiterate.

There has been reduction in some localities undoubtedly. This is true of Rowan county and some other counties where special efforts have been directed to that end. Illiteracy could be practically wiped out in a comparatively short time if it were possible to enlist every county actively in the campaign for its elimination. There is nothing to be gained by debating the question as to whether the number of illiterates in any certain county is a hundred or a thousand. Whatever the number it is too large and the time that is wasted in discussion could be put to better use.

It is known to all who are any wise familiar with the situation that there is too much illiteracy in Kentucky; that the State ranks low educationally as compared with the great majority of States of the Union. The disgrace of this condition lies not so much in the fact that the illiteracy exists as in the indifference with which it is tolerated. The Federal census of 1910 showed distinct educational gain. If we can make a better showing in 1920 there will be cause for congratulation.—Courier Journal.

KENTUCKY COKE PRODUCTION.

Coke is manufactured in Kentucky from coal mined in both the eastern and western parts of the State, but are in large part among the high-grade coking coals of the Appalachian field, most of the coke, until the last two years, has been made in the western district, which is part of the Illinois-Indiana field. Since the recent extensive coal-mining developments in the Elkhorn district of Pike and Harlan counties, however, coke ovens have been built and the principal coking activities have shifted to the eastern part of the State, and Kentucky is now assuming some importance as a coke-manufacturing State. The production has increased from less than 50,000 tons in 1909 to 191,555 tons in 1912 and to 317,984 tons in 1913. During 1913 a plant of 54 Smet-Solvay by-product ovens and 50 new beehive ovens were constructed, and by a coincidence 104 ovens were abandoned, so that the total number in existence at the close of 1913 was the same (1049) as the close of 1912.

DROWNED IN OHIO RIVER.

Vanceburg, Ky., July 20.—Miss Daisy Chalkley, 18 years old, of Carr's Station, was drowned Sunday. She was the daughter of Roger Chalkley, one of the oldest engineers in point of service on the Cincinnati division of the C. & O. railway. Miss Chalkley, with a party of friends, was bathing in the Ohio river at a landing near her father's farm. The body was recovered.

SWIFT SILVER MINE AGAIN "DISCOVERED."

Lexington, Ky., July 11.—The mystery surrounding the location of the famous Swift silver mine, of Eastern Kentucky, which has been diligently sought during the last 100 years by prospectors and adventurers and which has been reported as having been discovered in a score of counties in the Southeastern Kentucky mountains at various times, only to prove a hoax, has, it is believed, at last been solved by the recent find of silver on the land of Miss Lulu Derrickson, of this city, and her brother, John H. Derrickson, of Jackson, situated near Beattyville, Lee county, Ky., together with relics of John Swift, the reputed owner, which go to prove that the original Swift mine may have been at this particular spot.

The evidence submitted by the Derricksons to prove their claim is arousing much interest among the people of that section as well as mining experts at the State University in this city.

John Derrickson is a well-known lumberman, who has for some time been engaged in prospecting for timber in the Eastern Kentucky mountains. Recently while examining a tract of timber on the upper Kentucky river in Lee county he was attracted by glittering nuggets on the banks of a small stream which wended its way through the surrounding woods. Examining them more closely he was convinced that they contained both lead and silver.

The ground around was literally honey-combed with the shiny ore and in looking about him to discover the extent of the deposits he discovered in the nearby cliff a cavern. Entering this he was surprised to find fragments of the metal, and further in evidence of where someone had been in the cave. There were remains of burnt logs, so old as to be almost rotten, fragments of tools, a melting pot and a human skull, while carved in the rock wall of the cavern was the name Mundy, a man who is now known to have been interested with John Swift in the working of his mysterious silver mine.

His Interest Aroused.

Mr. Derrickson had of course heard of the Swift silver mine in his prospecting tours through the Eastern Kentucky mountains, and his interest was now deeply aroused by the discoveries he had made.

On leaving the cavern, however, and making further explorations in the vicinity he was gratified to make another find, which confirmed his suspicion that he had actually stumbled on the site of the long-lost Swift silver mine. This convincing proof was in the shape of an inscription on a rock near the entrance of the cavern, which evidently had been carved many years before and which time had almost covered up and obliterated with its age-old black grime common on rocky surfaces exposed to the elements.

This inscription was nothing more nor less than the name of John Swift, the reputed owner of the famous mine, and near it the name of Mundy, his "Man Friday." Underneath these names was the date, also carved in the solid rock, 1812, showing that it has been more than 100 years since Swift had placed his mark on the spot where it is believed he procured the precious ore which has made him famous as a plutocrat of pioneer days in Kentucky.

After making these discoveries Mr. Derrickson decided to have the ore found on the site assayed, and some of it was brought to this city and turned over to the mineral experts at the College of Mines, State University, for analysis. Examination of these specimens shows that a large per cent of the ore is lead, but that it contains a sufficient quantity of silver to justify the reopening of the mine and of working it, as was done by John Swift and his associates.

Purchases the Land.

Without disclosing to anybody his discovery or without intimating to anyone that he thought he had at last found the famous Swift silver mine, Mr. Derrickson interested his sister in the find and later they purchased the land.

Miss Derrickson, in an interview here, stated that it is the intention of her and her brother to develop the silver ore on the land and that with modern mining methods much better results might be obtained now than "old man" John Swift and his associates obtained more than a century ago with their crude operations.

Mr. and Miss Derrickson are both convinced that they own the land on which the real Swift silver mine was located and are prepared, they say, to furnish the proof by exhibiting the relics which have been described above.

A "DRY" TOWN EPISODE.

A prominent woman of Huntington "put one over" on her husband recently when a wagon drove up to her door with ten gallons of fine whiskey. She told the driver it couldn't be possible that the whiskey was for them, but he declared it was and insisted on unloading it, which he did, taking it to the cellar. She went to the phone and called up her husband who is a business man of that place, and asked him if it was not a mistake, but he said no, that he had ordered it when the city went dry that they might have it for medicinal purposes, camphor, etc. She very promptly responded alright, and hanging up the receiver called up the drug store and asked them to send up ten pounds of camphor. When the package reached her she proceeded to put one pound into each gallon of this high priced whiskey, and no doubt her husband will find that he has sufficient camphor to last him a life time.

FIFTY YEARS AGO.

Fifty years ago Saturday, July 18, 1864, President Lincoln issued a call for 500,000 additional volunteers to continue the war.

The call came as a dash of cold water to the hopes of the Union men in the Northern States. General Grant had fought his way from the Rapidan to Petersburg after a series of bloody battles that weakened the Union army to the extent of nearly 100,000 men, and hope had been running high that the end of the war was near. The call for such an immense body of new troops was interpreted by many as meaning that both the President and General Grant despaired of breaking through the Confederate defenses at Petersburg without a much larger army and a greater sacrifice of life.

Friends of Mr. Lincoln at Washington and elsewhere deplored the necessity of the call and feared that it would have bad effects upon the Presidential campaign. The three or four weeks that followed made up one of the most discouraging periods of the whole war to Union men, for volunteers came in very slowly, but the tension lessened with General Sherman's successes in the South.

In the next issue of the NEWS will appear the display ad of The John M. Sagraves Co., Huntington, W. Va., calling attention to their advertising campaign which is to be conducted in the store of Blankenship & Davis, near the C. & O. depot, Louisa, for one week only, beginning August 3rd. During this demonstration people will have an opportunity to see the very best Range made, and Mr. Sagraves will personally conduct this demonstration. A "Never Burn" potato baker and a number of useful souvenirs will be given free to anyone who will see the Range demonstrated. The main purpose of the demonstration is to advertise this Range. Remember that you do not have to buy the Range in order to get the free souvenirs, however, if you purchase a Range during the demonstration you get a $12.00 set of high grade Aluminum ware free. Watch this paper for the advertisement next week. (adv. 1t.)

Coal Mining Accidents for June.
Charleston, W. Va., July 15.—The records in the office of Earl A. Henry, Chief of the Department of Mines, show that during the month of June there were 41 fatal accidents in the coal mines of West Virginia. For the six months, ending June 30, 1914, there were 870 fatalities but it will be recalled that 180 of these occurred in the disaster at Eccles, in April. This would leave 190 fatalities with the mines running under normal conditions.

Requisition is Made.
Charleston, W. Va., July 16.—Governor H. D. Hatfield has made requisition on Governor Walsh, of Massachusetts, for the return to Huntington of Lawrence Robinson and Joseph Dudley, held by the Boston authorities in connection with the slaying of Police Inspector Marton.

The Huntington authorities say some of the ewels have been found in possession of the men.

Delivered to the Graduating Class of K. N. C. Last Thursday.

The following is an address delivered by Rev. B. M. Keith to the graduating class of the High-School Department of the Kentucky Normal College when he presented the diplomas Thursday evening, July 16, 1914:

"Take Hold, Hang On, and Hump."

Young woman and young men of the graduating class of the High School Department of the Kentucky Normal College: It gives me great pleasure on behalf of the faculty of this school, to present to you to-night your diplomas, which represent to you months of hard study in order to complete the course. I wish to congratulate you on your success thus far and hope you may continue your pursuit of knowledge in higher institutions of learning and that you may prepare yourselves for leaders in your professions.

As you go forth from this school seeking further development and better equipment I think I could not bring to you a more helpful message or better advice than to impress upon your minds the motto of one who lived some years ago: "Take hold, hang on, and hump."

"Take hold." If a young man succeeds from the highest viewpoint now it is necessary for him to make a venture. He must have a purpose in the world—he must take hold of something. Some men have no purpose now because they were not public school when they were young, but far too many have practically no education at all because in their boyhood days they would not go to school and if they were compelled to go they would not study. Such have no profession and no business whatever now because they made no preparation for such at the proper time, and if a good business should be thrust upon them they could not take care of it. They have never home because they have never had enough sufficient to secure means enough to own one. They have never gotten anywhere because they have never started anywhere. Success here in this section of our own state, as well as elsewhere, demands a struggle. God is not so good to us as He is to the the young men to put forth a little more effort to succeed because they are entering the professions and doing just as skilled work at many things as the men. Many modern inventions in the way of machinery are being used instead of men. "Not made with hands" is a very common sign to-day. When Bruce, the hero of Baunchoburn, died his heart was extended and encased in a silver casket and entrusted to Sir James Douglass to be carried to Jerusalem for burial. Douglass was killed fighting the Moors; but before he fell, he took the silver casket from around his neck, and threw it at the enemy saying, "And thou brave heart of Bruce, go first in fight as thou wast want, and Douglass will follow thee and die." It takes a struggle and a great deal of courage and the greater the difficulty the more glory in surmounting it. It took the French Revolution to produce Napoleon, the crisis with England to develop the strength of the thirteen colonies, and it takes storms and tempests to develop a good pilot. And that is most worthy in a man he must work out for himself. Charrout said, "Wounds and hardships prove our courage, and what our virtues are; the more power our wits and minds are shown against the best." If you do not have the greatest success at once do not become discouraged but "hold on" until you have given yourself a thorough test. A great bar of steel eight feet in length and weighing more than eight hundred pounds was suspended by a small chain. Nearly a common size bottle-cork was suspended by a small cord. The object of this was to prove that the weight of the cork hitting against the bar of steel would finally set it in motion. It seemed impossible, but the test was made. The cork swung against it again and again for at least ten minutes before there was any motion to the bar, but after about thirty minutes the bar was swinging very perceptibly. A young girl was asked to sing a piece and her teacher had her sing her piece again and again. He finally became impatient with her and said, "You do not sing it properly and you had ust as well quit for you will never make a singer anyway." The little girl did not become discouraged but practiced harder and harder from day to day, from week to week, and from month to month. One day she was to sing before five thousand people and she sang until she seemed to carry them up in the clouds of enchantment, over seas of melody, into an ecstasy of delight, until the people wept with emotion. This little girl was Lillian Nordica and she succeeded by "holding on."

"You may often think that hard
Is your lot,
That with mortal wounds you're scarred
When you're not;
But remember when you doubt
What's ahead,
That you're never down and out
Till you're dead.

When fate thumps you on the nose
With a whack,
Don't you whimper at her blows;
Hit her back!
Grit your teeth and 'go the route'
Till she's fled,
For you're never down and out
Till you're dead.

Pull and wealth and all the rest
Help a bit;
But the man who stands the test
Has the grit.
Keep your heart and courage stout
As you tread,
For you're never down and out
Till you're dead!"

"Hurry." Bend your back to the task. It has been my idea from childhood that I could do anything I wanted to do if I wanted to do it just bad enough. I do not mean to say that I have succeeded in all of my undertakings, but I have accomplished some things I would not have accomplished if I had not kept that idea continuous before me. So in seeking your place in the world put aside all considerations of ease or a soft snap. That level in life is crowded now, but there is plenty of room at the top for those who are willing to climb. If David Livingstone had been seeking for a place of ease he would never have gone to Africa and have given us the good years of his life to those people, the missionaries, who have done so much for the nations of the east, had been seeking a life of ease they would have remained with their friends in their palatial homes in the United States. Labor at something, a necessity for every man to develop his talents, and every man ought to be occupied in the most skilled labor possible so that he may be conscious at the last of having done his best. Indomitable energy may triumph over every difficulty. A few years ago while at work upon the designs for the new French bank-notes the famous engraver Flornin was suddenly stricken by paralysis. He could not speak and his right side was completely paralyzed. His right hand had become useless. His father rendered useless for years, David he give up in despair, and sit down and depend upon others for support him? No. He began at once to train his left hand to do the work his right hand had formerly done. He struggled with that awkward, untrained member for hours, days and months before it would obey his will, but finally with his left hand he could ply the tools with as much skill as he could formerly with his right.

So your life is before you, what will you do with it? May each of you "Take hold, hang on, and hump" until you become broad, deep, forceful and full-grown men.

"If you cannot on the ocean
Sail among the swiftest fleet,
Rocking on the highest billows,
Laughing at the storms you meet,
You can stand among the sailors,
Anchored yet within the bay;
You can lend a hand to help them,
As they launch their boats away.

If you are too weak to journey
Up the mountain, steep and high,
You can stand within the valley,
While the multitudes go by;
You can chant in happy measure,
As they slowly pass along;
Tho' they may forget the singer,
They will not forget the song.

Do not, then, stand idly waiting
For some greater work to do;
Fortune is a lazy goddess—
She will never come to you.
Go and toil in any vineyard,
Do not fear to do or dare;
If you want a field of labor,
You can find it anywhere."

SENATOR CAMDEN TO GIVE ANOTHER FARM BARBECUE

One of the big features of the State convention of the Kentucky division of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America, which meets at Versailles, July 28, 29 and 30 will be a big picnic and barbecue which will be held at Spring Hill, Senator Camden's home place, Wednesday, July 29th.

Senator Camden telegraphed to Frank McKee, of Versailles, yesterday inviting the farmers to be guests at his place on that date, and promised to be present to make them welcome. If it were possible for him to get away from Washington, Mr. McKee said that Senator Camden had advised him that he thought he could make arrangements to be present and join with the farmers in their meetings and celebrations. He said he would do so if it was possible to do so without neglecting his duties at Washington.

Woodford Farmers Aiding.
Other plans for the entertainment of the visiting farmers are being arranged by the Woodford County members of the Union, and Mr. Camden's invitation to come to his farm for a big picnic and barbecue was gladly accepted, with the splendid hospitality extended by Senator Camden last summer not yet forgotten.

Though the barbecue and ceremonies this year will not be as pretentious as last year, several notable speakers are expected and almost as many visitors as were present last year probably will attend.

President Barrett, of Union City, Georgia, chief executive of the national organization, has promised to be present and address the meeting and Dr. Fred Mutchler, of Lexington, connected with the United States department of Agriculture, will deliver several talks during the convention and at the barbecue.

Prominent Men Are Coming.
Many other prominent officials and members of the national organization have accepted invitations to be present and address the convention.

At the barbecue last year at Spring Hill, at which Senator Camden was host, it was variously estimated that between 15,000 and 25,000 visitors gathered to hear the speakers, experts in agricultural matters, from all over the country and partake of the hospitality of Woodford County's leading citizen-farmer.

The Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America, the Kentucky division of which will meet at Versailles, is the largest and most powerful agricultural organization in America. It has 5,000,000 members, among whom are agricultural experts in nearly every State in the Union.

KENTUCKY PRESS COMMENTS ON SENATOR J. N. CAMDEN

The New Campaigning.

Johnson N. Camden, who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the short term Senatorship, will not come to Kentucky to prosecute his campaign. Mr. Camden gives as his reason for not coming that:

"I want to be of such aid to the President as I can. He believes, and I agree with him heartily, that Congress should remain here until the trust bills are passed and then adjourn. I am a part of Congress, and therefore, it is my official duty, as well as my party service, to stay in Washington. It may be that I can get to Kentucky within a day or two of the primaries, but that remains to be seen and is dependent entirely on the progress of legislation."

If the country could be given "one wish" with the assurance that it had only to be expressed to be gratified, there is no question that it would take the form of an earnest petition that Congress get through with its trust legislation with the least possible delay and adjourn. The desire for action and adjournment is nowhere stronger than in Kentucky. In staying at his post and doing his full share for the enactment of the legislation, without which there is no possibility of adjournment, Mr. Camden has adopted a method of campaigning which should be none the less effective in Kentucky because of its novelty.

Woodrow Wilson has made good as President because he has permitted nothing to interfere with the work he was sent to Washington to do. Mr. Camden, in following suit, is playing the kind of politics that the people in Kentucky have long been waiting for and that they are not likely to disapprove when the time comes for them to return judgment. — Louisville Times.

Statesman and Candidate.

Johnson N. Camden, now Senator from Kentucky, is given a practical demonstration of how a man of energy and resourcefulness can be a statesman and a candidate for office at the same time, says a special from Washington.

He is running for the short Senatorial term, extending from the November election until March 4 next, and has thirty-six days in which to make the race. His opponents are Gen. Bennett H. Young, Commander-in-Chief of the Confederate Veterans, and former Representative David H. Smith.

In this three-cornered contest Senator Camden will remain in Washington and will direct his candidacy at long distance. Judge W. O. Davis, of Versailles, his lawyer and political secretary, will have charge of the Washington bureau.

Arrangements are being made to send out 300,000 letters to the electors of Kentucky. In this epistle the Senator will argue that he is the most available man to serve the State of Kentucky for the short term by reason of the fact that there is some continuity in the office of Senator.

Along with this epistolary campaign there will be conferences from time to time. One of these was in progress when Allie Young, of Morehead, Ky., was here reporting on developments. The word he brought to the Senator was that the outlook is rosy for his nomination. — Maysville Independent.

Highly Praised by Wilson.

Senator Camden's statement as to the relation of business to the legislative program received the high praise of President Wilson when the Kentucky solon called at the White House for the first time Monday. — Campbellsville News-Journal.

Plans to Aid Farmers.

Senator Camden intends to make a specialty of matters pertaining to the farmers, and Saturday he and his secretary, Judge Davis, had a long conference at the Department of Agriculture with Secretary Houston, the head of that department, looking to co-operation in the future. — Mt. Sterling Advocate.

Eminently Fitted for Place.

Senator Camden, who aspires to the short term in the United States Senate, is eminently fitted for the position. A fine business man and a gentleman whose character is perfect, Kentucky would be honored by having him as her representative in the National law-making body. — Mayfield Messenger.

He Fills Requirements.

It hardly seems necessary for us to say anything in behalf of our fellow-countryman, Hon. Johnson N. Camden, who is a candidate for the short Senatorial term created by the death of W. O. Bradley. Mr. Camden, we believe, measures up to the requirements of such a place, and if elected will faithfully and conscientiously serve the best interests of all the people. Surely Woodford county Democrats will not fail to show their appreciation of Mr. Camden at the August primary. — Midway Clipper.

Making Race on High Plane.

Holding that he cannot leave Washington without neglecting his official duties, Senator Camden will not come to Kentucky to participate in the primary campaign in which he is a candidate for the short term Democratic nomination for United States Senator. In this step, Mr. Camden again shows his good sense. Should he come to Kentucky, the political wire pullers would do their utmost to get him mixed up in the other races. Mr. Camden is making his race on a high plane, and in a manner which meets the commendation of the people. — Danville Messenger.

When Camden Was Sworn In.

One minute before the Senate gavel fell, Johnson N. Camden, private citizen, came in from the cloakroom, escorted not alone by his colleague, but by ex-Senator Jo Blackburn, who years ago had been a colleague and warm personal friend of parent Camden, and whose home is at Versailles, where the new Senator has long made his abiding place. There was a touch of sentiment in Senator Blackburn's escort of his old friend's son, now his fellow townsman, and it was appreciated by other Senators, especially those who had known the Hon. Joseph C. S. in days of his eminence and popularity in the chamber. There was not dramatic flourish in the induction of the new statesman, but no one on floor or gallery missed the sentimental touch of the Blackburn presence, and his fervent congratulation when the short ceremony ended. — "Rich" in Danville Advocate.

No Swapping of Horses.

Our young friend, Warren Fisher, of the Carlisle Mercury, who is the youngest editor in the State that we know of, and one of the best, has written tersely his views of Colonel Bennett H. Young's aspirations for empty honors. We publish his editorial in full:

"We have always had, and will always have, the greatest admiration and affection for those men who fought for a cause, which, though it was futile, was none the less bravely upheld by them and as bravely surrendered when the God of Battles ruled against them. For this reason, if for no other, we regret to see so honorable and so honored a veteran of this host of valiant gentlemen as is Colonel Bennett H. Young, enter the arena of party politics at a time so inopportune. That he will receive many votes is probable; that he will be elected as Senator from Kentucky is, to say the least, improbable. Senator Camden, whose appointment to serve out the unexpired term of Senator Bradley met with the universal approval of the party, has already entered upon the duties of the term for which he was appointed, he will have familiarized himself with the duties and requirements of the office, and be in position to serve to the best advantage the people of his State. That he is an exceedingly wealthy man has been used in campaign speeches by one of his opponents to prejudice his case. Though his wealth, we feel, may not be urged as a barrier, nor particularly as a qualification, yet the very fact that mere emoluments of office mean little to a man of such abundant means in itself removes a handicap of self-interest, which, though wrongfully imposed, is nevertheless placed upon every candidate, subconsciously, if you will, by the average voter. Mr. Camden, we believe, desires chiefly to be of service to his State. True, the honor of the office means much to him—and it is very natural and proper that it should; but he has shown, in numberless instances, that he has the welfare of the Commonwealth at heart and that his service is wholly free from self-interest. In this case, as in many others, Kentuckians, we believe, will recognize the wisdom of the old adage about 'swapping' horses when one is crossing a stream." — Exchange.

PENSIONS FOR AUGUST WILL EXCEED $100,000

Frankfort, Ky., July 15.—The August Confederate pension distribution will run well above $100,000. State Pension Commissioner W. J. Stone has 2,993 pensioners on the roll; but 200 of these have died since their pensions were allowed.

"At the present death rate among the veterans," said Commissioner Stone, "I believe we have reached the high-water mark and the deaths will practically keep pace with the additions to the pension list from now on."

The act of 1914, amending the pension law to permit Confederate soldiers who took the oath of allegiance during the war under duress and in fear of death, to secure pensions, has raised difficult questions, and Commissioner Stone is requiring proof that the applicant took the oath under such circumstances.

"To do otherwise would be unfair to those veterans who fought it out," he said. "They must bring in proof to support their claims. To allow a veteran who took the oath of allegiance during the war to come in here and, on his own mere affidavit that he verily believed he would be killed or die of starvation or disease when he took the oath, while those who fought throughout the war or served their time in prisons are compelled to get up proof, would give those who took the oath a great advantage."

MR. NEWMAN SUGGESTS CATCH FORAGE CROPS.

Frankfort, Ky., July 15.—Talk of $30 hay this winter has impelled Commissioner of Agriculture J. W. Newman to send out a bulletin to farmers, suggesting that they plant millet, cowpeas, sorghum or corn broadcast in unused fields and so raise a forage crop for feeding their stock this winter. Corn and sorghum planted at this time, he said, will be developed by fall sufficiently to make good feed, and cow peas and millet can be grown at this late season.

Hay is only half a crop in Kentucky. Much of the clover was frozen out last winter, and the drought got the timothy to a great extent.

Many farmers are setting out a second planting of potatoes, which crop was entirely lost in many sections.

RECEIVER FOR OLYMPIAN SPRINGS HOTEL COMPANY.

Olympian Springs, Ky., July 15.—Circuit Judge William A. Young late this afternoon appointed Manager Wallace Howe receiver of the Olympian Hotel Company and the Mutual Realty & Leasing Company, of Nashville. The bond of Howe was fixed at $10,000 for the hotel company and $2,000 for the leasing company property. The attorneys argued the case from 2 until 6 o'clock. The decision of Judge Young will be appealed to the Federal courts.

AGRICULTURE IS CAMDEN'S HOBBY

Washington, D. C., July 20.—Senator J. N. Camden, being one of the few farmers in Congress, is specializing his activities toward matters of greatest interest to tillers of the soil in Kentucky. He has paid several visits to the Department of Agriculture and has discussed with the Secretary and the various officials there ways and means for improving general agricultural conditions in the State.

Senator Camden believes that the co-ordination of State research work with that being conducted by the Department of Agriculture should be the first step taken, and said today that progress along that line is already evident.

Discussing his purposes, he said:

Kentucky to be Farming State.

"This is the first opportunity I have had where I could go into certain details with any degree of leisure with the Agricultural Department. You know, I have always felt that Kentucky will ever be a great farming State, and the character of her agriculture will determine the character and development of her people. Someone has well said that a people cannot be greater or stronger than their soil. I gave the barbecue last summer to emphasize a fact that our farmers did not, in my opinion, fully realize, and that is in mining, manufacturing and all productive enterprises; that the basic form of wealth is in itself about only half, or 50 per cent, of the problem involved—the other 50 per cent, is in organization, which really means co-operation. Granting that our soil would grade No. 1 in fertility—which in many cases it will not do—but by intelligent and industrious methods it can be made so. As we now stand with our imperfect system of soil education, organization and co-operation, we farmers are only realizing about half of what we are entitled to from our efforts and from our farms. It was a beginning of a campaign among our farmers of education and co-operation. I foresaw then that the wonderful mine of information and vitality—valuable facts that our Federal Government had in store, would not be beneficial to our own farmers unless they were prepared to avail themselves of it collectively. It was necessary to organize, to establish team work among themselves; we must trust one another if we are to prosper as a people and advance the solidarity of Kentucky interests."

Great Progress Is Made.

"To my mind the first thing to do is to co-ordinate the research work at the State University and Experimental Station at Lexington and the two normal schools, Eastern and Western, with the Federal Department of Agriculture, thereby increasing efficiency by preventing the loss in labor and time. I am delighted to say that steps are being taken to bring that about. But research work, either by Government or State, would be of little value to the farmer unless some way were found to teach him the things discovered by scientists in the experiment stations, and hence we have the extension and demonstration work."

I was told that the department had a great work along this line and that it is co-ordinating its activity with the activity of a similar character in the State agricultural colleges. Congress has recently passed a bill for co-operative extension work in agriculture and home economics, to be carried on by co-operation between the Department of Agriculture at Washington and the various State agricultural colleges, and the Secretary of Agriculture has taken the very broad view that this furnishes the opportunity for also co-ordinating all of the work carried on under direct appropriations to the department. In future the amount of money being devoted to this kind of education to help the farmers will be very large. The Smith-Lever act gives $10,000 a year for the first year to each agricultural college. Thereafter it is increased in each State in proportion to the rural inhabitants until, at the end of eight years, the total appropriation will amount to $4,580,000, and that same amount will be appropriated annually thereafter. Under this arrangement there will be coming to the State of Kentucky from this Smith-Lever appropriation approximately $154,103 per annum, which must be supplemented by appropriations made by the State or raised from contributions within the State amounting to $144,103, or a grand total of nearly $300,000 per annum. For the present year it is worthy to note that the Federal appropriation for farm demonstration work in Kentucky has been doubled, or increased from $22,500 to $45,000. Now, in all of this work for the benefit of the farmer we ought to be a unit.

Woodford county we are getting good results by co-ordinating the activities of the Farmers' Union, the Y. M. C. A. and the county demonstrator or expert. They are co-operating.

Department Can Teach Much.

"The Federal Department of Agriculture has many lines of work which they want to transmit to the State colleges and through them to the people, such as extermination of hog cholera, boys' corn club work and the girls' canning clubs, the establishing of dairy experts, cattle feeding experts, expert horticulturists for the apple and other fruit, industries, etc. It is a part of the function of the Agricultural College of the State also to educate young men in scientific agriculture, partly for two purposes. First, that they may go out and take positions as trained scientists in various lines of agricultural activity, or as teachers in colleges and schools, and, secondly, that many of them may return to the farm, to there put into practice the principles of scientific agriculture. The State needs the leadership of such men."

Another and most important part of the work of helping rural communities is the problem of education in the country schools. The State University and the two Normal Schools of the State are vitally interested in this problem. We must have a real education that fits young men and women for the activities of life in the country, broadening their views of life, arousing their love of the land itself and their appreciation of the opportunities of country life, and fitting them to be more useful citizens in a successful agricultural community. It is the province of the normal schools to train teachers who have these broad visions of the rural school as a most important center of influence in the upbuilding of every community. I hope the time will come when these teachers will be instructed so that they may give an education in country schools as good as the education of the city school, but which has the country aspect rather, than the city aspect. A good many of our country schools are little town schools in the country. The schools are beginning more and more to teach the practical things of life. Boys' corn clubs and girls' canning and other clubs are beginning to get hold of the rural school problem and focus the attention of the teachers and the child to play a part in the co-ordinating of all this activity on the part of the farmers and their families. I was given to understand that the State Department of Agriculture and other agricultural activities within the State are all joining in this general movement. Much good should result from united efforts.

How to Market Farm Products.

"Another and most important line of agricultural endeavor in which both the National Department of Agriculture and the State are interested is a new line but recently undertaken. That is the study of the business side of farming and the economic conditions surrounding the farmer which plays such an important part in making his efforts successful. No matter how good a business man the farmer might be on his own farm; no matter how much scientific agriculture he might know and practice, and how well he might do his work, there may be, and often are, circumstances outside of his control which would still prevent him from making a success of his work. For example, marketing conditions might be against him, and in this we have one of the big problems of country life today. The Department of Agriculture in the last appropriation bill received an appropriation of $200,000 for the study and dissemination of knowledge regarding the scientific marketing of the products of the farm. The standardization of the products, the proper packing of them for marketing conditions and the co-operation of farmers to bring about these results, furnish a problem which must be carefully studied, and the information thus derived must be placed in the hands of the farmers in order to relieve them from bad marketing conditions."

Much might be said on the side of the subject of the organization of farmers and of the communities generally for improvement of agricultural, social and economic conditions. On the working out of these intricate problems every force now in the field has a part and every institution engaged in this line of work deserves earnest and cordial support. With the united effort on the part of the rural church, the rural schools and Normal colleges, the college of agriculture, the Experiment Station and the United States Department of Agriculture, much good can be accomplished. We have undeveloped resources and agricultural opportunities in Kentucky as yet untouched. We can maintain the highest type of civilization only by having a successful and prosperous agriculture. One of the most beneficial influences that I see is the union of the interests of the Federal Department of Agriculture with our College of Agriculture at the State University, with the Normal Schools and other educational activities of the State to give to the farmers and their families through out the State of Kentucky that degree of service which they ought to have. At the present time there are twenty-two county agents, with an additional thirteen women county agents in girls' club work. I understand the plan to be to increase this number in the future and to take up a specific work for the home economics extension work which will place within the reach of every family in the State of Kentucky ultimately the services and instruction of trained experts, that they may be able to utilize the knowledge already in existence."

STATE PURCHASES MACHINES FOR GRINDING LIMESTONE.

Having employed the $5,000 appropriation for farm demonstrations the last two years in showing farmers how to build concrete silos, increasing the number from 300 to 2,053 in the State, Commissioner of Agriculture J. W. Newman is now turning his attention to the question of producing cheap lime for fertilizing the farms.

He announced recently that he has closed a deal with the manufacturers of limestone grinders for two machines which the manufacturers will take back the original cost price, being satisfied with the advantage accruing from the demonstration of the machine. The machines with an expert in charge will be furnished free to the farmers, who must provide the limestone and engine and employ such labor as is necessary.

The limestone can be ground at a cost of 50 cents the ton this way, Commissioner Newman said, and set up on the farmer's place will grind out 15 to 20 tons the day.

It requires four tons to the acre to properly treat the soil. The need for lime on the farms of Kentucky, he declared, is critical.

In many places they cannot grow red clover, alfalfa, soy beans or cow peas, all of which produce nitrogen in the soil, an element necessary for other crops. Nitrogen is the most expensive chemical element the farmer has to introduce in his soil and a crop of red clover, Commissioner Newman said, will produce $25 worth of nitrogen to the acre.

To get the chesed between the lime must first be introduced was calling voice is almost prohibitive evening.

cents per ton mile to haul it from the railroad to the farm and it costs five cents per ton mile freight on the railroad, besides the original cost of the lime. How the demand has grown is shown by the fact that in the last three years the number of concerns grinding limestone in Kentucky has increased from three to 150. Yet they cannot meet the demand, and the cost is preventing many farmers investing in it.

One of these machines will be set up on a farm near Lexington and will work through the Bluegrass and to the east. The machine has been tried out at the State Experiment Station.

"I predict that before many years Kentucky will follow the example of Illinois," said Commissioner Newman. "In Illinois the State prisoners grind limestone and the railroads haul it for a half cent per ton mile to the farmers. There is nothing needed more by farmers of this State than lime, and it must be made much cheaper."
